Life History of the child and the reason for sponsorship:

Since the occupation of Tibet, thousands of Tibetans fled Tibet and embarked on an arduous and perilous journey into exile. Subsequently, they took refuge in India, Nepal, and Bhutan. Inherently, the life of refugees is one of struggle, plagued by impoverishment and an uncertain future. Nevertheless, under the guidance and aegis of His Holiness the 14th Dalai Lama, it was decided that “Education” holds the key to preserving and sustaining the Tibetan struggle for a longer time. Therefore, the Department of Education, CTA, established separate schools for Tibetan children. The DoE is the apex body that has the mandate to give guidance and oversee the education of the entire Tibetan community in exile. On 16th May 1999, DoE started a new organization (Sambhota Tibetan Schools Society) that would manage the schools which were erstwhile managed directly by the DoE. Sambhota primarily provides education in far-flung areas, providing wholesome education to those less privileged.

Tenzin Karchoe hails from a far-flung region named Bhandara, Norgyeling, Maharashtra. It is an English medium school and has classes from I to V. Moreover, the primary livelihood of the family there is either farming, the army, or winter sweater selling. His father is the sole breadwinner as he works in a rice mill on a meagre income for long working hours, while his mother is a housewife. The amount generated by his father just suffices to meet their basic necessities, let alone bearing Karchoe's school fees. They want their son to study well and achieve his dream, unlike themselves.

Karchoe is an extroverted, courteous little boy who loves playing football. Physically, he is a well-developed child and likes to spend time playing with his friends. Additionally, his favourite food is ladies' fingers, while blue is his favourite colour. He wishes to become a footballer, and his favourite subject is Mathematics. His humble parent has a huge expectations of him and wish to see him succeed, unlike themselves. They want their son to become a contributing member of not only our exiled Tibetan community but the world at large.

We assure you that we will keep you posted and updated about the child twice a year, covering his progress in academic and co-curricular activities. We, the entire staff members and the children, would like to thank you for your unwavering support till now. We have made good progress till now, but we are also aware that there is still more ground to cover to achieve that we continually require both your physical and moral support.
